from Rev. A. W. Curtis:

Romeo, Macomb Co., Mich., July9, 1860.

Messrs. J. N. Harris & Co.:

Gentlemen: The confidence I bave in Perry Davis'
Pain Killer as a remedy for Colds. Coughs, Burns Sprains, and Kheunnatism, for the cure of which have successfully used it, induces me to cheerfully recomme dits virtues to ethers.

A few months ago I had never heard of its being used for that purpose; but having suffered intensely from a former one, and having no other remeds at hand. I applied the Pain Killer freely for about fifteeu turnetes at evening, and repented the application very briefly the next morning, which entirely destroyed the felon, and increased my confidence in the utility of the remedy.

Vours truly,

Minister of the Wesleyan Methodist Church.

PRESIDENT DAVIS' MESSAGE.

Washington, Nov. 23. The Richmond papers of Wednesday last contain the message of President Davis to the Congress of the rebel States. After the usual congratulations, he says: "The operations of the army, soon to be partially interputed by the approach of winter, have offered protection to the country, and shed a fered protection to the country and the country and the coun glorious radiance upon its army through the criminals. trying vicissitudes of more than one ardious campaign, which entitle our brave volun-teers to our praise and gratitude." Which they have been nearly altogether on our side. In the very progress of the war whole States have been led to transfer their altegiance from the Northern to the Southern. But, not content with violating our rights, under the law of nations, at home, they have extended their injuries to us within other jurisdictions. The distinguished gentlemen who, with your approval at the last session, were commissioned to represent the Confederacy at certain foreign Courts, have recently been seized by the Captain of a United States vessel of war while on board a British unail steamer, on a voyage from the neutral and Spanish ports of Havana, to England. The United States have thus claimed a general jurisdiction over the high seas; and general jurisdiction over the high seas; and entering a British ship sailing under its coun-battle from England. There is no occasion for us by our Northern brethren, and cordially do we thank them for it.

Meantime we lose nothing essential by the We have all the necessaries of life, food in abundance, materials for clothing, and munitions of war sufficient for the exigencies of the compaign. We send out privateers when we please, and they do their work. Yankee ships go to the bottom, and the rich freights which have swelled their prolits, now seek other and safer flags. So much for the blockade. Who does it injure most?

Let us now glance briefly at the results of the campaign on land. First, take Missouri. Surprised by a powerful army of occulation before even she had determined to take sides, her soil was, for a space, overrun. But her people soon rallied, with their squirrel rifles, shotguns, and unconquerable energies, to repel the invader, and behold the victories Carthage, Springfield, and Lexington Lyon was killed just in season to prevent his recall and his disgrace. Siegel and Fremont have both had the cold shoulder given them by their Government—an neknowledgment by the Vankees that the campaign westof the Mississippi has, so far, been a failure. With Price and Jeff. Thompson to lead, we have no fears for Misssouri. The Confederates will hold their ground, and it is not at all unlikely that St. Louis will fall into their hands at no distant day.

Next in geographical order is Kentucky. But the other day the Yankee fing waved all over her borders. But now the whole scene is changed. Her people are rallying by thousands to our cause. The fighting men are with us The Union men have been unable to rally soldiers. The hearts of the people are with the South, and as fast as our legions advance to give them protection they enlist in our urusies. At the western point of Kentucky a brilliant victory by Polk and Pillow has given us completely the advantage, and strengthened us all over the State. In southeast Kentucky Zollicoffer and Marshall are holding important positions, which the Confederate Government will be careful to maintain against all possible disaster. Nor will they, in our opinion, restrict themselves to merely defensive operations. The further the enemy is driven back the more secure will be the vital line of the military communication with the southwest. We believe that, with energy, these movements will be a powerful cause in compelling a withdrawal by the enelocated with a numerous and well appointed army. He is now at Bowling-Green, in the heart of the State. He is aboudantly able to content with that, he is boldly pushing onward to Louisville. If he has thus moved, we can not doult his entire success, unless we have greatly misconceived his abilities. Certainly as to Kentucky, there is the best reason

Upon the Virginia campaign it is hardly necessary to dwell in detail. In the West, the latest phase of the campaign is favorable to our arms. General Floyd has followed up the enemy, insults him in his position, and threatens his communications more than equivalent to Rich Mountain. In the Valley, Patterson was not only completely foiled by General Johnston's superior strategy, but has retired in disgraco to private life. Instead of conquering and helding, the enemy limits himself to maranding. In the Peniusula, Magruder holds the enemy securely in check. In the single battle there fought, the enemy was ignominiously routed. At Manassas our army has held its ground firmly, proully, and defiantly. It awaited out lence the onset of the finest army that had been hitherto organized on this continent, and drave it back with a loss, not so much of numbers as of honor, that will never be forgotton. In its old stand-point it defies the advance of the enemy. It is within twenty miles of his capital, and it means to stay there or to advance-not to tall back. Meintime, McClell in has let the best period for an attack on by. We still believe he will assa't General Johnston in the positi n, but we have no appre-

In another part of his message he says:

We have already two main systems of through transportation from the North to the South—one from Richmond along the sense.

The unexpected failure of our shore through transportation from the North to the South—one from Richmond along the sense.

We imagine they will get but little cotton not half enough to freight a ship. If they dure to advance into the interior they will be erushed, and none will go back to tell the story. Our peopl are tired of having their homes barned, their women ravished, and their property devastated without adequate retaliation, and we suspect they will give to the pirates the pirate's doom. In all its essential objects the expedition will be a great failure—an enormous expenditure of money, without important results. It will not even humbug Europe, as is confidently expected, by its projectors. The people of England will liken it to the Welcheren expeon of a former day. In fact, the attempt of Packenham on New Orleans in 1814 promsed much greater results. The reason why the Crimean expedition succeeded, was that Russia was, from a want of military roads, further off from the scene of hostilities than her powerful antagonists. So we see no cause to be troubled about Port Royal, if lost ordinary the Royal of the Royal of Communication in the property of the pro energy is used by our Commander, and the of Carolina show, as we believe they will, the same spirit that was exhibited in the first struggle for liberty gle. > [From the London Herald, (Derhy organ,) Nov. 2.] Lord Russell and the Cubinet have now mething serious to think about in the matter of the American blockade, and each step they take will form a precedent for future jurists. The latest phase which the question has assumed, in the fast and loose policy of the Federal Government, is exceptional and extraordinary. Wo believe it, in fact, to be unsupported by any precedent, and to be wanting in respect to other governments Taking advantage of the act of the 18th of February, 1793, which would seem to bear on cases of irregular clearing from one American port to another, and of the act of March, 1797, which would seem to grant the power of remitting fines in posed under the ict of 1793, we are led to understand that such American vessels as have from time to time run the blockade have been released, although British ships for doing the same thing have been condemned. Further, it appears that American vessels arriving in one American port from another with irregular elearinces-in other words, which have run the lockade-are not to be interfered with in future, unless under instructions from the Federal Treasury, while British and other foreign vessls are, we presume, to be still liable t capture, and to subsequent condemnation in the Federal prize courts.

> It would be idle for us to pretend to see what the Federal Government is now driving at; but the bow may as well be drawn at a nture. Time will be gained by this new Federal scheme, and in the interval the Fedral Government will try its hand at the subigation of the South from the seaboard. If the attempt is attended with success, then the blockade will be raised formally; but if bad luck follows the Federal cause to Savannah and New Orleans, the blockade will not be raised. And, in the mean time, the privileged American vessels would take ice, tobsters, oy-ters, and other delicacies not contriband to the nnoccupied cotton ports, and carry back with them all the cotton that could be had. Presuming this to be the new line which the Federal Government intends to take, it may be asked whether Lord Russell and the British Government will lend themselves to its being tried? Lord Lyons be instructed to ask an explanation from Mr. Seward, and Mr. Seward be permitted to deliberate and confer and stir up in the same breath the angry elements of which American society is composed? If so, we do not hesitate to affirm that a more grave responsibility never was assumed by the constitutional advisors of the Crown. And it will be remembered that at the beginning of the American diffi-culty Lord Russell felt assured that there never would be any fighting, and when the fighting did hegin, that the numbers and resources of the North would at once prevail. It would be needless to inquire how far these misinformed and narrow views shaped the course of the evalition policy, or want of pol-

Now, however, judgment must be exercised and common statesmanship displayed. Opinion is now well formed among all classes on the merits of the contest, and there will be no further reticence in the House of Com-mons. and tittle Capitalists-No Humbug. Our readers may remember that there apearod a mysterious statement some time since, which went the rounds of the press, that an cania, in the southern part of the republic of Chile. The announcement was apparently so absurd that it was regarded us a hoax-no sooner read than forgotten; but it turns out that it is no hear. The King and kingdom of Araucania are matters of abdocument purporting to come from his Majesty be not a forgery. That document, which we believe to be genuine, is a letter from King Orelio Antoine I, to the editor of the Comercio, of Linia, in which his Araucanian Majesty Edefines his position. The little good-humored raillery which sets the house in a roar; equally skillful in attack and reference to the content of the content solute fact and undoubted existence, Majesty "defines his position." The letter is worth giving in full

Mr. Epiron:-I have formed the project of colonizing Arancania and Patagonia, and, to avoid in future all war for independ ace, I desire to establish immediately in these counties an independent, constitutional monarchi-eal government. With this view, sir, I have the honor to send you herewith, first, a copy of an ordinance of the 20th of last Novembe second, a programme of the steps I propose to take for the colonization of those countries, in order that you may have the goodness to publish them in Spanish in the columns of your emed journal. I do not know whether or not I am mistaken, but I believe the Pernvian nation will regard my project favorably.

The periodical El Mercurio, printed in Valparaiso, is entirely opposed to my project, and does all in its power to throw ridicule upon it, general, the uncompromising enemy of all Frenchmen. I say this, sir, that you may be on yourguard against all that the above mentioned periodical may say; and, in case you think well of my project, that you would be pleased to insert an article to that effect in your paper, explaining to the public the motives for the opposition shown by the Mercurio, to the intended colonization and civilization of the unhappy Araucanians, since it is beyond all doubt, and facts prove it, that the Chilians are incompetent to subdue those people. I beg you. Mr. Editor, to necept the assurance of my very distinguished consideration. PRINCE O. A. DE TOURRENS.

The project of colonization alluded to is duted March 11, 1891, and is marked by the use of the kingly "we." It commences: "We have formed the project of colonizing the vast and rich countries of Patugonia and Arancana by means of a universal company !) with a capi tal of one hundred millions of dollars, divided into a million of shares of one hundred dollars each, payable in tenths every three mouths. The said colonies will be under the control of a monarchical government, autonomous and independent, as we have declared our ordinance of November 19, 1860, and others subsequently. The document then goes on to state that by n ordinance of November 20, a committee of seven is to be appointed in each country to lock after the interests of the shareholders; and there will be, besides, a central committee residing in the colony for the same pur-pose. With the sums collected in each country expeditions of colonists are to be fitted to King Orelie Antoine, will compel obedience irom the natives to the laws cobmists, will be established in all parts of the Old and New Worlds. Each family is to have a certain quantity of land in proportion to the number of its members, and is to have, besides, for the first year, implements of husbandry, seed for planting, animals, &c. which these latter may not choose to occupy will be administered in their name. It is esit shall be theirs, with "the fatness thereoff," ing 5,175,000 hectares, or 3,243 square leagues of country. Taking that quantity from the whole, there would remain for the shareholders 100,266 square leagues, or 160,-425,000 hectares. Quite a splendid operation that! But that is not all. King Orelie Antoine knows very well that land is worth nothing unless it produces something which may be reduced to dollars and cents. therefore takes care to explain the most tempting feature of the project, namely—the returns in hard each which must be sure to accrue.

He says: Even though the value of each licetare (about two and a half ucres) should not more than $20, the sum total "produced for the benefit of the shareholders" would be $3,-208,512,000, which, divided among the million shareholders, would give to each a yearly dividend of $3,208. Truly a magnificent per eentage. His Majesty, who was lately, pro ubly, in the grocery and provision business, says, with no less wit than truth, that bit is what is called in mercantile phraseology, an 'excellent business' as well for large as for small capitalists.' We entirely agree with And then the shares are so low and so easily paid for; ten dollars every three months would never be missed even in these hard times. The wind up of this interesting document we will give in his Majesty's own

We call, then, seriously on all societies and individuals, on men of progress and capitalists, and usk them to aid us in carrying out successfully the great work we have commenced, thus co-operating in the founding of a great nation, in introducing civilization and industry into those rich countries of immense and fertile plains, and giving abundance, health, and prosperity to millions of families, who now groan under the weight of suffering | So and want.

Let no one say his Majesty is not a serious man and a philanthropist, whatever else they may say. What n rush there will be for shares when the books are opened. And when that rush does take place, why,

May we be there to sec. It is proper to say that, neither by the Mercurio of Lima, nor its namesake and contemporary of Valparaiso, is the slightest doubt thrown upon the existence of this singular and self-elected monarch, who has turned in the oddest place and in the oddest manner possible. If he don't look out very shapply, the next news we shall have from him will p ably be that the royal dynasty of Araucania is extinct; for he is clearly amenable to the laws of Chile as a "secosher," in endeavoring to separate that province from the republic Besides, it is just as likely that the Indians themselves will take him in hand as soon as they shall have come to understand the nature of his "project."

Not a word escapes him when a prominent man is on his legs. Do not be de-ceived by his lazy attitude or his sleepy expression. Not a man in the House has his wits more thoroughly about him. Ever ready to extricate his colleagues from an awkward difficulty, to evado a dangerous questionmaking, with an air of transparent eandor, a attack and retreat; such, in a word, is the bearing of this gay and gallant veteran, from the beginning to the end of each debate, during the entire session of Parliament.

He seems absolutely insensible to fatigue.

"I happened," said a member of the House, writing to a friend, last summer, "to follow Lord Palmerston, as he left the clonk-room, the other morning, after a late sitting, and, as I was going his way, I thought I might as well see how he get over the ground. At first he seemed a little stiff in the legs; but when he warmed to his work he began to pull out, and before he got a third of the way he bowled along splendidly, so that he put me to it to keep him in view. Perhaps in a few honrs after that long sitting and that walk home, and the brief sleep that followed, the Premier might have been seen standing bolt upright at one end of a great table in Cambridge House, receiving a deputation from the country, listening with patient and the country, listening with patient and courteous attention to some tedious spokesman, or astonishing his hearers by his knowlof their affairs and his intimacy with their trade or business.
